Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from London Committee of Deputies of the British Jews and Anglo-Jewish Association Nothing was further from the intention of the legislator than to exclude any child who might wish to attend school. Article 1 of the new Law, which has just passed the Chamber of Deputies, is as follows: - Elementary education is obligatory and gratuitous for the sons of Roumanians only; Aliens will not be received in Elementary Schools (with the exception of the inhabitants of the Dobrudscha), unless they pay a special fee, which will be fixed by the regulations for giving effect to this law. In exceptional cases, the Minister can grant exemption from that fee. When the vacancies in the schools are insufficient, preference will be given to the children of Roumanians. The significance of the proposed law will be realised when we remind your Lordship that Jews, though natives of the country, are not regarded as Roumanians, unless they have been naturalised by Act of Parliament. There can be no doubt as to the inevitable consequences of the new measure should it pass into law; the Jews will be systematically excluded from all the Elementary Schools of the country, and, as to any exception by means of Ministerial interposition, experience has taught us how Ministerial decrees, and, above all, restrictive laws are interpreted in the case of Jews. For many years past, schools have from time to time been closed to Jews by legislation similar to that which has just been commenced. Training Schools for Teachers, Military Schools, and schools for the children of soldiers are now accessible to Roumanians only, and yet they are all maintained out of the rates,...
